

New President

Bertram H. Silverman is the new president of the Shaarey Tphiloh Synagogue. His grandfather, Philip Silverman, was the congregation's first vice president when it was founded in 1904. Others elected at yesterday's annual meeting were Louis Seavey and Arnold Goodman, vice presidents; Samuel I. Cinamon, treasurer and Jack H. Goldblatt, secretary. Named honorary life directors were Samuel H. Comeras, A. S. Levey, Cinamon and Seavey, Hyman Boxstein and Owen Mack were named deacons of the Noyes St. branch of the congregation, and Barnet Fireman and Michael Moskowitz, deacons for the Newbury St. branch. Elected to five-year terms on the board of directors were Jules Abramson, Morris Cox, Charles Glick, Harold Romanow, Abraham Siegel and Arthur M. Waterman.

Shaarey Tphiloh Elects Officers

Bertram H. Silverman was elected president of Shaarey Tphiloh Congregation Sunday afternoon.

Others elected were Louis Seavey and Arnold Goodman, vice presidents; Samuel I. Cinamon, treasurer, and Jacob H. Goldblatt, secretary.

Silverman's grandfather, Philip Silverman, was the synagogue's first vice president when it was organized in 1904.

Elected to the board of directors for five years were Jules Abramson, Morris Cox, Charles Glick, Harold Romanow, Abraham Siegel and Arthur M. Waterman.

Two deacons were elected for each synagogue. They were, for the Newbury St. temple, Barnet Fireman and Michael H. Moscovitz, and for the Noyes St. temple, Hyman Boxtein and Owen Mack.

Four men were named honorary life directors. They were Cinamon, Samuel H. Comeras, Abraham S. Levey and Seavey.

India's first nuclear plant to produce electricity, between Bombay and Ahmeabad, is expected to be in operation by 1962.

