NEW YORKERS and Philadelphians were the winners of both the men's and women's championship golf tournaments held last week at the Summit Springs Hotel, Polanc, Maine. Mr. Walter N. Rosenau, of Philadelphia, was a Class A winner; Mr. E. I. Bramson, of New York, Class B; and Mr. Leon Stern, of New York, Class C. The tournament held the attention of all the guests and the matches were most interesting from the eighteen-hole qualifying round to the final match. The women's championship tournament was run off last week, Miss Ethel Salant, of New York, defeating Miss Charlotte Goldstone, of New York, in the final round of the first class. The women showed some fine golf and all the matches were close and well contested. The children's handicap golf tournament, consisting of a qualifying round of five holes and match play of five holes, was won by Harry G. Sundheim, Jr., of Philadelphia. The lowest qualifying score was turned in by Ben Lissner, Jr., of Newark, N. J., who made a 35 for five holes.

Labor Day golf tournament handicaps are announced at all the country clubs on Long Island and in Westchester County. At most of the clubs these tournaments are limited to men of all classes. Qualifying rounds, it is announced, are to take place to-morrow afternoon, the match plays being reserved for Sunday and Monday. The winners in all of the classes will compete for the trophy on Sunday, September 11.

At Camp Roszbach, above Peekskill, N. Y., the annual Leaders' Conference of Madison House will be held to-morrow, Sunday and Monday.
